Resisting Temptation

Who of us does not succumb to temptation now and then? We know that we shouldn't be doing or thinking something and yet our will-power seems insufficient to resist. As I get older, I find that I can no longer eat anything I want and remain healthy. I know what's best for me; a diet free of junk food, lots of water, not too much coffee and regular exercise. I know that when I adhere to this simple plan I feel and look better. But then I skip lunch one busy day and I pass a McDonalds on the way home. It's easy to drive through and munch on a burger. Worse, I justify it by saying that I have so much to do that grabbing fast food will free me up to do the important things of the day. I can justify it any way I like but, in the end, I simply gave into an unhealthy desire.

We all face unhealthy desires every day. Some have less significant consequences and others more. The bible tells us that the evil one tempts us to sin with the most extreme consequences. He wants us to turn away from God and embrace a life that excludes God's purpose for us. The forces of evil may make the temptation appear to be good, or at least harmless, but if it draws us away from Jesus it will have major negative impacts on our life.

Jesus understands that we will be tempted, after all he himself was tempted by the evil one. Far from judging us, Jesus resonates with our struggle and offers to be with us in the fight against temptation. When the devil tempted Jesus, he relied on the powerful, Spirit-filled word of God to help him in the fight. We have something even better. We have the living Word, God who became human, to call upon when we face temptation. Let's not go it alone. Jesus wants to be with us, empowering us so that we can keep our eyes on him and his purpose for our lives.
