Before worship

In preparation for this weeks before worship I read the readings for this week. The readings which really stood out to me were from 1 Timothy 1:12-17 and Luke 15:1-10. When reading the passage from Timothy I felt reassured that God is a gracious and loving God. Even though we turn to our own ways and think we can do things in our strength God reminds us that we cannot do it on our own. We need to rely on his strength to get us through. I find it funny how I am now on my final teaching placement before I graduate to be a teacher and I completed a devotion on the Parable of the Lost Sheep with the students in my class. We read the book called 'Cecil the lost sheep'. The students loved it as they were reminded how much God loves them. I was also reminded too. Now doing a devotion on it tonight I am reminded again that God comes to save people and just like the one lost sheep we need to rejoice when someone repents and turns to God.

Dear God, thankyou for life, health, and every good in our lives. Please be with us when we go through tough times. Remind us that you are always with us supporting us. Help us to trust you. As well, help us to shine your light in those lives around us. In your name we pray, Amen.

Book Launch

As Lutherans around the world prepare to commemorate the 500th Anniversary of the Reformation, two new Luther publications will be launched in Adelaide later this month.

Dr Stephen Pietsch has written Of Good Comfort, which is based on his doctoral thesis, which won a 2014 Flinders University Vice Chancellor's Prize for doctoral thesis excellence. It examines 21 letters of pastoral comfort which Luther wrote to fellow sufferers of depression. In this book, these letters are analysed, with careful attention to their rhetorical and theological aspects so that their wisdom for pastoral care today can be harvested.

Dr Jeffrey Silcock has translated Athina Lexutt's book, A Year with Luther - From The Great Reformer For Our Times. This volume is a daily Luther breviary for pastors and laity, for use in college, seminary and university, and for reading at home. It is suitable for Christian believers and inquirers, as well as for those interested in Reformation history.

These books will be launched on Thursday, 29 September at 7.30pm in the Australian Lutheran College Refectory. All are welcome to attend this event, which will include brief presentations, finger food and wine. Copies of both publications will be on sale at the launch.

For catering purposes, please RSVP to Alice Lamnek – alice.lamnek@alc.edu.au by 23 September.
